Jack and Carol Dubnicoff Take 14 Medals from Plus-55 Games

By Scott Taylor

The Manitoba Liquor and Lotteries 55 Plus Games wrapped up for another year in Killarney, MB. See Games results - pages 8-10.

For the longest time, Jack Dubnicoff would compete in Senior's Games around the province. His wife, Carol, would tag along, enjoying the day, watching the events and chatting with the competitors and volunteers.

Then, in 2014, Jack convinced Carol to start competing.

"She's always been active and in good shape," Jack said. "I just said, 'If you're going to tag along with me, why don't you take part?'"

With that, Jack Dubnicoff created a monster.

At this year's ALCOA Plus-55 Games held last month in Killarney, Dubnicoff was once again the poster boy for Senior's Fitness, winning four silver medals in track and a gold in swimming.

But it wasn't Jack who was the star. Carol won five gold medals in the pool and four on the track. As the parents of former Canadian Olympic cyclist Tanya Dubnicoff, they've made their daughter jealous.

"No, not Tanya," Carol laughed. "She's proud of her mom and dad just like we're proud of our daughter."

As Jack celebrates his 80th birthday, he gets to the track, the pool and pickleball court at the Wellness Centre on a regular basis. For the Dubnicoffs, fitness is a way of life.

Dubnicoff is from Whittemouth, Man. He moved to Winnipeg in 1950, graduated from St. John's Tech ("I lived right across the street on McRae.") and then completed the Hotel Cook's course at Manitoba Technical Institute.

"I started working at the Royal Alexandra Hotel and then got a job at Chateau Lake Louise," Dubnicoff explained. "Then I worked summers at St. Charles Country Club and then the winters at the Winter Club."

He then moved on to become executive chef at the Glendale Country Club for five years and then spent 12 years as the manager of the old Caesar's Palace Restaurant at Polo Park.

He then moved over to become manager of the provincial canteens at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind for a couple of years and then in 1984 went to Chicken Delight. In 1995, he moved to his final pre-retirement job with Chicken Chef.

These days, he and Carol work very hard just staying fit.

"We both go to the Wellness Centre every morning, about six days a week," he explained. "I was running three-kilometres a day but my knee got pretty sore so I'm laying low with that for a while. Carol also does golfing, running and swimming to stay in shape and I lawn bowl, golf, play pickleball and swim. We keep active. We do something all the time."

Jack calls Carol, "The Golden Girl," and for good reason. They both participate in the over-75 age group and in Killarney, Carol won gold in the pool in five events: The 50-metre freestyle swim, the 50-breaststroke and the 50-backstroke. She also won gold in the 100-breast and 100-free. On the track, she won gold in the 100-metre sprint, the 200, the 400 and the 800.

Jack, meanwhile, won silver in four track events: The 100, 200, 400 and 800. He also earned gold in the plus-80 division's 50-metre breaststroke in the pool.

Carol doesn't really care all that much that she's surpassing her talented husband on trips to the podium. Instead, she simply loves to compete.

"I was following Jack to all these events and while I was watching I just thought that I could compete," she said. "I just love these events. Everyone is pulling for everyone else.

Every competitor wants every other competitor to be successful and that makes it so much fun. We're always supporting each other.

"In fact, when I was following Jack around, I didn't realize how much fun it is. And it's not just the competition, although I love the competition, but I also love the socializing. No matter where we go, it's a group of great people who are all so friendly. And these small communities that host the Games are just wonderful. They are so welcoming and the volunteers work so hard. I just love making new friends in all the places we go."

Next summer's ALCOA Plus-55 Games will be held in Glenboro-Carberry-Wawanessa. Jack and Carol can't wait. ■

SOS: Save our seniors from Financial Elder Abuse

- Shirley Hill, CFP - Executive Financial Consultant, Investors Group

In a previous column, I discussed the issues surrounding scams and financial fraud which are targeted specifically at seniors. As a stark reminder of the various ways seniors can be taken advantage of, it proved how prolific these scams are, and how easily one can be lured into succumbing to the fraudulent tactics. That being said, one of the more heinous versions of abuse would be those perpetrated against seniors for financial reasons. This is called "financial elder abuse" and while it takes many forms, financial abuse of seniors is far more prevalent than most would like to admit. Unfortunately, it often involves family. In other words, those we should all be able to rely on and trust implicitly can be the abusers which can have enduring, detrimental impacts.

What is financial elder abuse? The financial abuse of a senior involves the misuse of senior's money or their belongings by a person they trust. Financial Abuse is defined generally, as an action that occurs as part of an ongoing relationship. Financial abuse of seniors often happens in connection with other types of abuse.

Indeed, financial abuse is one of the most common types of seniors' abuse. Who is at risk and why? There are a variety of factors and conditions that can certain increase the chances of a senior being victimized by financial abuse, notably: isolation; loneliness; recent losses of loved ones; physical or mental disabilities; lack of knowledge or comfort with financial issues; having family members who are unemployed and/or have substance abuse problems.

The reasons why elderly people tend to be attractive targets are numerous, and important to acknowledge in understanding how to mitigate the problem. Here is a brief listing of some of those compelling reasons¹:

- Persons over the age of 50 control over 70% of the nation's wealth
- Many seniors do not realize the value of their assets (particularly homes that have appreciated markedly)
- The elderly are likely to have disabilities that make them dependent on others for help. These "helpers" may have access to homes and assets, and may exercise significant influence over the older person

- They may have predictable patterns (e.g. because older people are likely to receive monthly checks, abusers can predict when an older person will have money on hand or need to go to the bank)
- Severely impaired individuals are also less likely to take action against their abusers as a result of illness or embarrassment
- Abusers may assume that frail victims will not survive long enough to follow through on legal interventions, or that they will not make convincing witnesses
- Some older people are unsophisticated about financial matters
- Advances in technology have made managing finances more complicated

Certain tools commonly used in many financial situations relating to seniors are, Powers of Attorney (POAs) and joint bank accounts. These tools are intended to assist seniors and others in managing their financial affairs. They are predominately used when seniors reach an age or health circumstances such that there is difficulty in making their own sound financial decisions.

Daily living actions like paying utility bills, signing leases on assisted living residences, and making other financial commitments become challenging in the absence of an able individual. While tools like PoA's and joint bank accounts can be very useful, the most common scenarios associated with the financial abuse of seniors are related to the misuse of PoAs and joint bank accounts. Consequently, these two mechanisms must be done with caution and, generally, close oversight.

According to the Financial Consumer Agency of Canada², some common examples of financial abuse of seniors include:

- misuse or theft of a senior's assets, property or money (often from joint bank accounts or through improper use of PoAs)
- taking a senior's money or cashing their cheques without their permission
- forging a senior's signature or altering documents to get permission to access or dispose of assets

- monetary gifts that are involuntary—e.g., gifts made under coercion, undue influence or threats
- unduly pressuring, forcing or tricking a senior to make or change a will, to sign legal documents giving away property or obligating the senior to something for which they will not benefit from, as well as:
 - pressuring a senior to obtain a mortgage they don't need, where the proceeds are used by a relative or
 - having the senior sign a guarantee or pledge their property as security for someone else's loan
- pressuring a senior to give money or write cheques for family members or to someone else that that family members direct them to
- sharing a senior's home without paying a fair share of the expenses when requested
- failing to repay loans provided by a senior
- Predatory marriage, where a person deliberately pressures an older person of limited capacity into marriage solely for financial profit.

Without a doubt, one of the crucial components of addressing financial abuse of seniors is to be able to identify what this abuse looks like, and what those tell-tale signs are. Ask yourself (or ask a loved one, or friend, who you are concerned about) if you have encountered any of these situations or felt something was wrong but were not entirely sure why. Here is a list of some possible signs of financial abuse and key questions to ask yourself³:

- Have I felt, recently or in the past, pressured into giving away money or purchasing things that I do not want or need?
- Has someone taken my money or cashed my cheques without my permission?
- Has someone come to borrow money from me on a regular basis and doesn't seem to ever repay it?
- Have I noticed withdrawals from my bank account or charges to my credit card that I cannot explain?
- Have I received strange overdue bills

Coin Collecting - a Treasure Hunt

By Metro Hnytko
Manitoba Coin Club - RCNA #23572

The collecting of coins can be expensive or just pocket change, depending on what you choose to collect. The coins from the Queen Victoria era are not cheap because of the limited availability, yet recent coins can be found in your change.

I'm going to appeal to the beginning starters. Start with what you can get at a reasonable price (face value). You might find more valued coins (good luck to you).

I've been collecting coins for more than 60 years and most of my coins were either found in change, traded for with duplicates, or actively bought. The prices were much lower then but it would have been much cheaper to find them in change.

I'm going to help our new collectors by displaying some interesting 25¢ coins which can be found in change.

Canada's 150th Birthday has brought a lot of different coins into circulation. A different 5¢, 10¢, 25¢

Just some of Metro's 25¢ coin collection and coloured 25¢, a loonie, and 2 toonies, one of which glows in the dark. It's the first glow in the dark coin minted for circulation anywhere in the world. These coins should be easy to find in your change.

For a more complete list of 25¢

Canada's special 150th Birthday collection coins, do a search on Google 25 cents.

I went to the Mint on Canada Day, July 1st, and I was amazed at the volume of people there - 25,000 or more. A clear indication that the collecting of coins is alive and doing well.

If you are interested in learning more, visit our coin show at the Sunova Centre, 48 Holland Rd, West St. Paul, on Saturday, September 30th and Sunday, October 1st, 2017. For more info, contact Howard @ 204-253-0419 or Barré @ 204-296-6498.

After reading this, I'm sure you'll never look at your change in the same way. So, get started and Happy Treasure Hunting!

- that I thought were paid already?
- ◆ Has someone prevented me from making my own financial decisions or accessing my own money?
 - ◆ Has someone not managed my finances as we originally agreed?
 - ◆ Have I felt forced into changing my will or signing legal documents that I don't fully understand?
 - ◆ Have I felt pressured into sharing my home or car without fair compensation?

There are a variety of things you can do that should help you or a senior you know avoid becoming a victim of financial abuse. While some of these suggestions indicate fraudulent activity, other are scams as we have discussed previously. Here are some tips, courtesy of the Financial Consumer Agency of Canada⁴:

- Be wary of phone or email requests asking for banking or other personal information—your financial institution will not call you to ask for this information.
- Keep your passwords and personal identification number (PIN) to yourself—avoid writing them down or sharing them with friends or relatives. Once you've shared your PIN (for your debit or credit card) with another person, you risk giving up your liability protection, and could be held financially responsible for any unauthorized transactions undertaken with your cards.
- Keep your financial and personal information in a safe place.
- Ask a lawyer or someone you trust to look over contracts and other papers before you sign them.
- For major decisions involving your home or other property, get your own legal advice before signing documents.
- Before you sign a Power of Attorney (PoA) for your property, consider consulting a lawyer to ensure you are aware of all of the implications. A PoA is a powerful document that grants a person (or persons) power to act on your behalf for property or personal care decisions. The person you appoint with a property PoA may have complete access to your finances. Assigning a PoA to someone is not a decision to be taken lightly. For more information, visit FCAC's page on Powers of Attorney: Your rights and responsibilities or the publication: See what every older Canadian should know about: Powers of Attorney (for financial matters and property) and Joint Bank Accounts.

- Use direct deposit for regular deposits such as pension or annuity cheques and preauthorized payments to pay for bills to limit the number of banking transactions that others will need to do for you.
- Be very cautious if you open a joint bank account. A joint bank account means that the other person is also an owner of the funds in the account and could withdraw all of the money without asking. The joint owners' creditors could also seize your money to pay their debts. Your funds could be considered the joint owners marital assets if they divorce their partner.
- Keep a record of money you give away and note whether it is a loan or a gift.
- Make an effort to keep in touch with a variety of friends and family so you don't become isolated. If living alone is becoming a problem, consider living in a housing arrangement where there are others around you for companionship and security i.e. assisted living.

As you can see, this is an issue that is both worrisome and potentially very damaging to the lives of some of our most vulnerable seniors. That being said, the problem of financial abuse of seniors is by no means a new phenomenon. It has taken many shapes and forms over the years, and has become a major socio-economic concern given the demographics of our country. The social implications are massive as huge swaths of the Canadian population move deep into retirement and live longer lives than ever before. Changes in technology, in the ways we manage finances, in the very financial products that exist today (that perhaps did not when today's seniors were much, much younger) means the wealth of our eldest generation is a prime target for abuse. Keep a keen eye on this and protect yourself, your money, and help your fellow senior by sharing this article with them today.

Finding help with 'transitions' to the next stage for yourself or a loved one

By Roger Currie

The first release of data from the recent Canadian census confirmed a few things that we already knew. For the first time since these counts began, there are more Canadians over the age of 65, than under the age of 15. And, we the baby boomers, and our surviving elders, are still a major determining factor for governments when it comes to providing health care and other very necessary services.

As Canadians, we are continuing to experience a huge demographic 'transition', as the entire 60 plus generation adjusts to being not only 'empty nesters', but in many cases people with special needs that come with advancing age.

We're talking about mobility issues that make climbing stairs difficult, making a housing change urgent and necessary, and memory issues resulting from Alzheimer's and other forms of dementia. Downsizing and other aspects of this transition can be complex with many moving parts, and it has created some new and unique business opportunities.

Where can you go for help if you live many miles away, and your elderly parent or loved one must make a move to assisted living or other housing options in a place like Portage La Prairie or Steinbach? Is it possible to find someone you can trust to manage it all? Fairly new in the game is Epilogue Estate Services Ltd. based in Winnipeg.

Dan Maxson assisting a client.

“Where can you go for help if you live many miles away, and your elderly parent or loved one must make a move to assisted living or other housing options”

One of the founding partners is 67 year old Dan Maxson (pictured). His has been a life of service to others in many different ways, most recently at Siloam Mission in Winnipeg.

Over coffee recently, Dan pointed out that their goal is to offer 'Peace of Mind' to those who are going quietly crazy trying to figure out the myriad of chores that accompany transitions like downsizing and DE-cluttering.

"We want to walk with you as you traverse the chapters of one story into another".

His younger partner, Ben Barkman, is passionate about cleaning out and getting the best value for anything that needs to find a new home. Over the years, Ben has been very successful in reducing the overall cost of downsizing by finding value in cherished items.

Other services provided by Epilogue include house and yard maintenance, caring for pets, and disposing of all manner of personal possessions, including furniture and vehicles. They will liaison with lawyers all across Manitoba, helping to organize necessary paperwork so that bills for legal services are kept as low as possible.

Asked to describe a typical client Maxson says "Perhaps you are a widow or a widower, or an adult child in charge of the transition or estate, with no help close by. We would come in and start making lists of what needs to be done, and we will make the arrangements. If there are 'collectibles' we work with family members to make sure items are properly stored, and if necessary we can also help find people who will evaluate the items and arrange for them to be sold".

Epilogue's philosophy is to "sell, donate and recycle items where-ever possible, only resorting to disposal in a landfill when all other possibilities have been explored.

They also handle and dispose of firearms and hazardous household items in a legal and safe manner. Sometimes after the death of an elderly person, the disposition of a family home requires a fair amount of legal process and clarification. Dan Maxson says "It's not unusual for a year or two to pass before all issues are resolved. In a case like that, we come in and do a thorough assessment of what's needed, to ensure that the house is safe and secure, and does not deteriorate during an extended period transition".

Other services include assisting with funeral arrangements, helping with accommodation for out of town guests.

The overall approach is nicely summarized on the back page of Epilogue's brochure with a quote from motivational speaker Billy Cox.

When you bring peace to your past, you can move forward to your future"

MINISTER OF HEALTH, SENIORS and ACTIVE LIVING

Kelvin Goertzen,
MLA for Steinbach

Whether you're enjoying a barbecue with family and friends, getting active or attending one of our province's many summer festivals, summer in Manitoba is hard to beat. We're one of the sunniest provinces in Canada, so there are plenty of opportunities to enjoy the outdoors under clear, blue skies.

I hope your summer is filled with exciting outdoor fun, but while you're enjoying the many summer festivities that Manitoba offers, please take care to protect yourself from heat and sun exposure.

Though our bodies try to keep a consistent temperature, they can become overworked when we're exposed to sun and hot temperatures for too long. Prolonged heat and sun exposure can lead to sunburn, dehydration, exhaustion, heat stroke (sun stroke) or in extreme cases, even death. If you're over the age of 65, health risks can be greater for heat-related illnesses. Fortunately, most heat-related illnesses can be prevented by being aware of the risks and symptoms of heat exposure and by taking action to protect yourself.

As we age, our bodies do not adjust and respond as well to sudden changes in temperature. Chronic medical conditions can affect how the body responds to heat. The use of prescription medications can also impair the body's ability to regulate its temperature.

Staying cool, healthy and safe this summer

Hot temperatures can be especially dangerous for older adults when dealing with medical conditions such as heart problems, high blood pressure, breathing difficulties, kidney problems, mental illness, dementia and Parkinson's disease.

Here are some simple ways to avoid heat-related stress:

- Drink plenty of cool, non-alcoholic beverages.
- Ask your doctor or pharmacist if the medications you are taking will affect your ability to cope with heat.
- Wear loose-fitting, light-coloured clothing, made from a breathable fabric, and a wide-brimmed hat.
- Pay attention to local weather forecasts and plan your outings and outdoor activities during cooler parts of the day.
- Wear sunscreen to prevent painful sunburn and limit your exposure to damaging ultra-violet rays. Your sunscreen should have an SPF of at least 30. This will block 97 per cent of the sun's damaging UVB rays. The higher the SPF, the better.

In addition to keeping yourself cool, take these steps to keep your home cool:

- Close your windows, blinds and curtains during the hottest part of the day.
- Use air conditioning or fans to cool and circulate the air where possible.
- On hot days, eat meals that don't require the use of the oven.

If you don't have air conditioning and your home gets too hot, go to an air-conditioned public place to cool down. Your local public library or shopping centre are great options.

To stay healthy and safe, be sure to watch for symptoms of heat illness, which include dizziness, headaches, nausea, vomiting, muscle cramps, rapid breathing or heartbeat and decreased urination. Heat illness can be very serious, and in some cases, requires medical attention. It is important to watch for signs and symptoms of heat exhaustion or heat stroke. If you or someone you know experiences signs of heat illness, call Health Links-Info Santé at 204-788-8200

(in Winnipeg) or toll free 1-888-315-9257 (elsewhere in Manitoba). In an emergency, call 911 or go to your nearest emergency department.

For more information on heat and your health, visit www.gov.mb.ca/health/public/health/environmentalhealth/heat.html, or call the Seniors Information Line at 204-945-6565 in Winnipeg/toll-free 1-800-665-6565 or email seniors@gov.mb.ca.

Have a great summer!

55-Plus Activity Centre celebrates 40 years

Almost 70 members of the East St. Paul 55-plus Activity Centre gathered for their annual Spring Luncheon last month and held a celebration for the centre's 40th birthday.

The lunch, held at Larter's, brought together those who use the municipality's centre for everything from card playing to yoga.

The founding fathers and mothers of the centre were called The Go Getters, and they proved they were that by holding fundraisers so they could purchase furniture for their new gathering place.

Nick Pociuk has been going to the centre for a long time. He joins his friends twice a week to play cards - Tuesday is crib and Friday it's whist.

Pociuk says in their heyday they would have about 50 people out playing - their numbers are down to anywhere from 18-24 these days, but they're still having fun.

"We were card playing people, and we still are, that hasn't changed at all. We're in our 80s now, I'm 85, and we still enjoy going," Pociuk said.

"A lot of the old card players have passed away and we haven't been able to recruit many new ones. But it's still a place to meet and we gather, we talk and we have a little lunch and a few laughs. That's the idea."

CURRIE'S CORNER

By Roger Currie

CFL's New Commissioner

Some free advice today for Randy Ambrosie who is hitting the ground running as the 14th Commissioner of the Canadian Football League. As the son of the man who could have been the second guy to hold the job, I was tempted to say “Don't take it Randy, you don't need it”.

But in fact, the CFL definitely does need a guy like him who knows how to be successful.

They also need to re-visit their whole approach to scheduling and television. We're only in week 3, and we've seen some of the most exciting games in recent memory, including the match at Commonwealth in Edmonton last Friday between the Eskimos and the Montreal Alouettes. It was the second half of a double-header, and thanks to my PVR, the greatest invention since indoor plumbing, I was able to watch much of the second half of the Edmonton game the next morning.

I can think of a lot of sleepy 'marginal' fans who probably wouldn't bother.

Roger Currie is a Winnipeg writer and broadcaster. He is heard regularly on CJNU, Nostalgia Radio Question .. If you're only playing four games each week, why must two of them happen on the same night?

Another question, what would be wrong with scheduling the last game of the week on Monday evening? I know it's a big night for the No Fun League, but not until the second week of September. Between now and then, the CFL has five more doubleheaders on the schedule, plus a tripleheader on Saturday September 9th.

You have a great product Mr. Commissioner. Why not make sure it has a chance to find the largest possible audience. While you're at it, maybe think about finding a way to bring back blackouts of home games, unless you really think it's 'big league' for the country to see less than 10,000 watching the Argos at BMO Field.

Major League Soccer is a wonderful game, but there's no way it should draw more bums in the seats, or eyeballs on the flat screen than the boys who knock themselves out chasing the Grey Cup. ■

"A VANISHING SPECIES - PART TWO- "A PIONEER PERMIT TEACHER"

Submitted by former permit teacher - Ed Arndt, Virden, Mb, on behalf of the Dr. Louisa Loeb 13th Annual Reunion of Permit Teachers of Manitoba.

Some of the readers may recall seeing an article entitled, "A Vanishing Species" published last year in papers throughout Manitoba. In that article I briefly outlined the history of the permit teachers in Manitoba. I also shared with readers a number of experiences of permit teachers throughout the province.

This year, instead of relating a number of permit teachers' experiences, I would like to highlight the contributions of one Permit Teacher, the late Peter Maendel, whom I consider a "Pioneer in the Field of Hutterite Education"

Peter's life began as a member of the Hutterian Faith on the Rosedale Colony, northeast of Elie, Manitoba. After his marriage to Sarah Wurtz of the James Valley Colony, he and his new bride settled into the newly founded New Rosedale Colony. Their marriage was blessed with 3 sons and 9 daughters.

During the latter months of the Second World War, Peter bussed to Port Arthur, Ontario along with fellow Hutterites to work in the shipyards as conscientious objectors corresponding to their Pacifist views and his faith.

After returning to New Rosedale, he was elected the position of Hog Barn Manager, a new job involving a lot of learning about animal husbandry, which he enjoyed and thoroughly understood....and probably served him well in dealing with his rambunctious Teachers College Colleagues some years later!!!

During the winter months, Arnold Peters the Mennonite Teacher in New Rosedale School offered the men of the colony evening classes in Math, Science and English. Peter was an enthusiastic participant.

In 1955, the New Rosedale Brotherhood elected Peter to the vocation of teacher, an historic first for Manitoba /Canadian Hutterites. In order to prepare for this new and pioneering responsibility Peter registered at the Mennonite Brethren Collegiate Institute in Winnipeg, a decision based on the common Anabaptist Faith background of both Mennonites and Hutterites. He studied during the summer months as well and he managed to complete Grades 9-12 in just two and one half years! During the 1959-60 school year Peter taught as a Permit Teacher from September to Christmas at the New Rosedale Colony School and then from January to the end of June at the new daughter colony -Fairholme, located south west of Portage La Prairie

In 1960, Peter enrolled at the Manitoba Teachers College in Tuxedo where I was a fellow student. Peter was already in his mid-thirties and the rest of us were just a bunch of young rambunctious fellows in our late teens and early twenties, full of "spice and vinegar". Peter resided in "Fraser Hut", the same hut as I and during that year we considered it the "elite" hut.!!! Because of Peter's modest personality and his deep religious faith he probably would not have agreed with my assessment! Peter fit in very well with us despite our ignorant, youthful exuberance, served as a "leavening agent" and mentor to many of us including a spiritual mentor....and thus began a lifelong friendship with many of his colleagues at Teachers College. My late wife, Lorraine, and I cultivated an ongoing friendship with Peter and we got to know and appreciate Peter's family and really enjoyed our frequent visits to the Fairholme Colony.

After Teachers College and teaching for one year, Peter enrolled at the Gimli Summer School Camp in July and August of 1962 and earned his Permanent Teaching Certificate... an historic first for the Hutterite Community. For twenty-five years he taught Grades 4-8 in the two room Fairholme Colony Elementary School.

After Fairholme established Windy Bay Colony near Pilot Mound, Peter was elected as Fairholme's minister on October 28, 1979 and ordained in 1989 and served and led with skill, dedication and enthusiasm.

Following the example set by Peter, two of his daughters, Anna and Dora Maendel were awarded Bachelor of Education Degrees from the University of Manitoba in 1985. During the decades of 1994-2004, nearly a hundred other Manitoba Hutterites have gone on to obtain Bachelor of Education Degrees from Brandon University. In 2013 the first group of four Hutterite women graduated from Brandon University as Registered Nurses: three of Peter's granddaughters and one great niece. Peter was indeed a "Pioneer" in the field of Hutterite education.

Anna & Dora have both graciously accepted an invitation to be our guest speakers at this year's Dr. Louisa Loeb 13th Annual Reunion of the Permit Teachers of Manitoba to be held on July 13, 2017, where they will give a presentation of their father's life in the field of education.

Our theme again for this year is, "Students and Teachers Together Again" and you are once again encouraged to bring a former student or students whom you taught on permit to the gathering.

For more information, call Edith Alexiuk at 294-256-6484.

Keeping History Alive in St. Adolphe

The old convent in St Adolphe has recently been demolished but the memories of this glorious building and its occupants lives on in the historical book called

The Old Convent Tells Its Story.

The unique and personal stories associated with this building are fascinating.

Among the historical events are accounts of priceless relics, ghostly characters and the circumstances surrounding a real miracle that took place in the 1920s.

This book, written by the very citizens of St. Adolphe, can be purchased for $30. Please call Rhéa at 204-883-2055 or Alice at 204-883-2566. ■

Good Samaritans / Good Sams - More than Camping

In my camping excursions, I crossed paths with the Redboine Sams at Rock Garden Campground in Richer Manitoba. I recently sat down with President Ann Ingalls to find out more about this RV club that recently celebrated it's 25th Anniversary. The Redboines are one of three active chapters located in and around Winnipeg. There are seven chapters in the Manitoba Northwest Ontario district with many more chapters across Canada and in the USA. This season the Redboine Sams are starting out with 18 rigs and 9 associate members. There are five planned campouts starting with the May long weekend at Champagne Campground in Lac Du Bonnet. A Manitoba/ N.W. Ontario Rally is being held May 31 - June 4 at Shoal Lake. For the rally, members of all chapters get together coming from across Canada and as far away as the States. All Redboine campouts are held at privately owned campgrounds within a two hours drive of Winnipeg. At the sites, there are 'Happy Hour's, potluck dinners, Sunday morning 'big' breakfasts, playing lawn or table games, and town outings to eat at restaurants, golf, shop, and check out garage sales. The group hosts two book sales and silent auctions at Rock Garden and Great Woods campgrounds. The proceeds from these two summer fundraisers (plus the silent auction at the annual Rally) are donated to The Dream Factory, a Manitoba based non-profit organization that supports children with life-threatening diseases. Since 2011, the Redboine Sams have contributed over $10,000 to this deserving organization and for their efforts have been recognized as Silver Level Sponsors. For all their charitable work, the Redboines were amongst four mentionable international winners in the Good Sam's Chapter of the Year Contest. That organization recognized the group during the last week of April. Off season, the group gets together once a month for breakfasts at Winnipeg restaurants, a catered Christmas dinner, and games nights. Redboine President Ann Ingalls "is always looking for new members", and invites everyone "to come out and join us". Wagon Master Jake Friesen says, "We always welcome new Good Sam Club members to our Chapter". There is no restriction on age, size or type of RV. There is a business component to The Good Sam Club whose larger organization offers roadside assistance and insurance as well as a complementary one year's membership for first time members. For more information, please contact Ann at 204-254-4121. ■

HUMOUR

By William J. Thomas

I used to be a landlord. For six summers I rented up north through an agency where my contact was a nasty woman name Frankie. Her two-pronged business policy was that the renters she sent me had to be rowdy and destructive and when bad things happened it was always my fault. When the kid ran through the kitchen screen and somebody busted the sliding glass door downstairs and contrary to the rental agreement, a guy showed up with a big honkin' jet ski - it was my fault. "The place is old and needs an upgrade" she would say and "you live too far away to handle these problems." The place was solid and functional and I wrongly believed that's why I was paying Frankie 15% of the rental fees ... to solve the problems. One day Frankie called me and I detected a tone of delight in her voice which means something must have gone seriously wrong at my cottage. A client from Toronto had lit the barbeque the previous evening and it had exploded. The steel cover had blown off and landed one story below in the backyard. I was told he extinguished the flames with a seltzer bottle which is an odd thing to bring for a week at the cottage. "The faulty regulator was faulty," said Frankie. "That barbeque was not properly maintained." The barbeque was nearly new and working fine when I used it the previous week. "You could be charged for something like that. You're lucky that guy wasn't killed." Frankie hung up before tears of joy began streaming down her dour face. I imagine it was her best day ever on the job. I immediately called Adam a smart kid who lived in the nearby village. Adam started the summer doing yard work at the cottage and created a whole new career for himself by fixing things my renters wrecked. "See if the barbeque is salvageable and you'll probably need to get a new regulator," I said. A few hours later, Adam called me back. He had gone to the cottage and although BBQ Bob had gone back to the city for the day, his wife and sister-in-law were there. "It wasn't the regulator," Adam began. As the story goes, the girls were drinking wine at the patio table and watching Bob do something he'd apparently fantasized about but never actually done before - operate a barbeque. Bob wanted to put on a good show for the ladies by first demonstrating his mastery of the outdoor cooking machine itself so he... "He switched the tanks," said Adam. The tank didn't need changing, but no matter. Then he ... "He got the threads crossed." Okay, now he's got gas coming out of the tank and ... "Then he turned both burners on." Now he's got gas shooting out from three sources and let me guess, "He hit the starter?" "No. Then he sprayed barbeque starter fluid into the barbeque." That would be volatile, inflammable, methanol BBQ starter normally used on charcoal barbeques. "Then he hit the starter." The fireball that erupted from the housing of the barbeque singed two eyebrows and ten knuckles, sent wine glasses rolling across a table top and caused at least two moose in Algonquin Park to cock their antlered heads in that curious way that says, "Bob? Was that you?" The cast iron top exploded off its hinges and missed Bob's head by inches. "You need a new barbeque," said Adam. I asked to speak to Bob, but I was told he was on his way back to the cottage from Toronto, no doubt speeding north on southbound Highway #400 wondering why all the other drivers are giving him the finger. I called Frankie. She was horrified ... that it wasn't my fault. I informed her that I'd be buying a bigger and better barbeque out of Bob's damaged deposit - "It's called a 'upgrade,' Frankie." I asked her to quit calling me with tales of false hope. "Please Frankie, never call and say that guy almost died. Guys like that are supposed to die in order to enhance the gene pool. I mean what if one day he woke up and decided to reproduce!?" As I said, I'm no longer a landlord.

PRAIRIE TALK - Now & Again

By Angela Temple

Tuesday, June 13th, before the predicted nasty rain and wind storm hit, the Beausejour Bowling Gang arrived ready and willing to Rock and Bowl. Though there were few in number once more, we still had a lot of fun and laughter. There were bedposts and headpins sprinkled here and there, and always gutter balls galore!

Sandra scored the first strike along with the one and only Double Double. Strikes were few in number which meant, we rolled a lot of balls...with a few 'roll-through' that simply wouldn't connect to pins. The High Single was held by Sandra with 154 along with the High Triple with 414 points, but with Ted hot on her heels with his 413. Tuesday, July 27th was another bright sunny day for Rocking and Bowling for the Beausejour Gang. 'Twas a very small group but in spite of, laughter and cheering bounced off the walls. There were many gutter balls, head pins, bedposts along with cool looking but a tad frustrating when one left both corner pins and headpin standing. Here's a list of all the firsts of the day: Alfred had the first strike as well as the first headpin but also scored first Double double and all in the first string. Ted had the first gutter ball as well as the first spare along with his Double double and also all in the first string. Ted walked away with not only the High Single with his 175 but also the High Triple with 454 points. Hey 'Rocket man'...where are you... we miss the snap, crackle and pop at the end of the alley? The next bowling is slated for Tuesday, July 11th. That's all folks!

PROVINCE TO MODERNIZE REGULATIONS ON RECREATIONAL VEHICLES, FACTORY-BUILT HOMES

Manitobans are invited to share their views so the Manitoba government can update the regulations for recreational vehicles (RVs) and manufactured homes, announced Cliff Cullen, minister responsible for the Office of the Fire Commissioner (OFC), .

“The RV and manufactured-home industries have changed significantly, as have the standards and practices used,” Cullen said. “Many of the regulations currently governing these industries have not been updated in over four decades. We look forward to hearing from Manitobans as we work to modernize outdated permit and inspection requirements while reducing the administrative burden associated with enforcement rules.”

The OFC has prepared a discussion paper on proposed changes. Recreational vehicles are considered camping trailers, fifth-wheel trailers, motor homes, slide-in campers and travel trailers. The minister noted proposed changes include recognizing modern definitions and standards for RVs, as well as removing the requirement for a dealer to get a permit and have a used mobile home inspected by a provincial regulator before it can be sold.

The review of manufactured homes will include updating the definitions and referenced standards under The Building and Mobile Homes Act and removing the labeling requirements for the sale of used mobile homes.

The full discussion paper is available on the OFC’s website at www.firecomm.gov.mb.ca.

Submissions can be e-mailed to firecomm@gov.mb.ca with “Recreational Vehicle and Factory-Built Home Review” in the subject line
